

DIREKTE AUKTION ART, ABER FAIR

649: David Lindert / O-Town House (Photography) and Dirt Under My Nails (Poem) (Both 2020)

The poem and photo (still life) are auctioned together.

"O-Town House is a gallery in LA where I had my first-ever solo exhibition in March 2020, but the reception was canceled as it was the first day of lockdown in LA. We had a small private opening and in the kitchen I took this still life."

"The poem Dirt under my nails I wrote for Queer Correspondance, a part of Cell Project Space, London. It will also be featured in my first-ever book that will be published with Long Tang Zurich in September 2021. It's about my delusional life, where I cannot step out of the addiction." David Lindert

David Lindert (*1992 in Czech Republic) considers himself a visual poet. He studied Portuguese studies and literature at Charles University in Prague and is currently mainly based in Berlin. Deploying an autobiographical approach, the works mirror, process and translate his daily experiences. Recurring themes include new century illnesses, fear of future, boredom, OCD, anxiety, alienation, vulnerability, sex and substance addiction, as well as overprotective parenting.

In 2020, Lindert participated in the Tom of Finland's residency in Los Angeles.

GRÖSSE: Photo: 20 x 30 cm and Poem: 30 x 20 cm

EDITION: Both unique, original prints

SIGNATUR: Signed

TECHNIK: Inkjet print on satin paper and inkjet print on paper

MINDESTPREIS: 400 €

SCHÄTZPREIS: 600 €